Kopechne Case Papers to Be Made Public

BOSTON (AP) — The transcript of testimony and the judge's report in the Mary Jo Kopechne inquest will be made public at 3 p.m. EDT Wednesday.

Miss Kopechne, 28, drowned last July when a car driven by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy went off a narrow bridge on Chappaquiddick Island and landed in a tidal pond.

Chief Justice G. Joseph Tauro of Massachusetts Superior Court stepped into the case Monday and ordered the papers to be released, rejecting the claim of a professional court stenographer that he alone had a right to make copies of the documents and sell them.

Justice Tauro cited two orders of the state Supreme Court, on April 9 and again last week, which denied stenographer Sidney R. Lipman's claim that he had ownership rights. His firm recorded the January inquest.

Tauro also cited the finding of the state Supreme Court that it could not find any basis for the federal courts to assume jurisdiction over release of the papers.

CLARENCE LIVINGSTON
Clarence M. Livingston, 80, formerly of Hope, died Friday in Denver, Colo.

He is survived by a son, Frank Livingston of Magnolia, two sisters, Miss Susie Livingston of Patmos, Mrs. Mable Parsons of Denver; a brother, Howard Livingston of Patmos.

Services will be at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday at Providence Baptist Church by the Rev. Elbert O'Steen and the Rev. Glendon Raines of Magnolia. Burial will be in Evening Shade Cemetery by Herndon Funeral Home.

Miss Margie Royston, 20, of Hope, was named Miss Ouachita University last weekend, in competition with 12 other students. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G.D. Royston Jr. of Hope Rt. 3. She will represent OBU in the Miss Arkansas Beauty Pageant at Hot Springs in July.

Would Shift Control of Tech Schools

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Executive Committee of the Arkansas Advisory Council for Vocational - Technical Education recommended today that the state shift the emphasis on vocational training from area vo-tech schools to high schools.

In recommending that vocational - technical training be made an integral part of the secondary school curriculum, the committee suggested that the existing 10 vo-tech schools should direct a larger share of their training to the needs of industry.

The committee said that it did not think it wise to continue expanding the state's post-high school vocational technical training program. There are 10 such schools now in operation and 12 more, plus two branch schools, are being contemplated.

The committee said the vo-tech schools have served a vital role in the state, but that they were designed to be and are primarily remedial educational institutions to make up for vocational training deficiencies of the public school system.

In addition, the committee said, the per-pupil cost in the schools was high and that total average daily attendance of less than 2,000 students was relatively small despite the fact that 21,000 youths dropped out of the state's school system each year.

The committee's recommendations and findings were submitted to the full council today for its consideration.

Press Rates Eliminated by the FCC

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission today ordered an end to preferential telegraph and telephone rates for the press.

The FCC ordered American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and Western Union to file any new rate schedules needed within 30 days and to eliminate the preferential rates within 50 days.

The decision applies, the FCC said, to "private line services for press associations, news agencies, radio networks, radio broadcasting stations, newspapers, periodicals, and other general circulation publications publishing general news for public information."

The FCC affirmed an initial decision issued June 17, 1969, by hearing examiner Forest L. McClenning, and agreed with him that press spokesmen had failed to prove that application to them of commercial wire rates would significantly impair the dissemination of news.

Tribute Is Paid to Mr. Wilbur Mills

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — The Republican administration today sprinkled political coins of unknown value at the seat of a powerful House Democrat, hailing Wilbur Mills as "easily one of the 10 outstanding legislators in the history of the republic."

Welfare Secretary Robert H. Fince traveled to Conway, Ark., to pay tribute to Mills, and, incidentally, Mills' alma mater, Hendrix College. Fince went armed with a letter of praise from President Nixon.

Few small colleges rate a Cabinet secretary and a presidential greeting on the inauguration and investiture of a new president.

But the pride of Hendrix is Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee and sepherd of the Nixon welfare reform proposal.

Mills is given major credit for the speedy House passage two weeks ago of the revolutionary plan for a form of guaranteed annual income. It is now pending before the Senate.

"I've long looked forward to my visit to Conway, not just because of the generous hospitality I so happily received, nor solely because of this institution about which I've heard so much," Fince said in his prepared speech.

"If the truth were known, I also wanted to see the land and people and institutions that helped make Wilbur Mills and kind of man he is," the welfare secretary said.

Fince's remarks were prepared for delivery at the investiture of Dr. Roy Shilling, new president of Hendrix College.

The secretary referred to Mills' "high intellect, open mind, patience and tenacity to stick to an orderly decision-making process."

These qualities, Fince said, allowed Mills to reverse his initial misgivings over the welfare reform proposal.

Fince, however, wasn't always so pleased with Mills. He talked in January of the "constant skipping . . . and confusion" that marked Ways and Means consideration of the measure. He accused the House, and by implication Mills, of trying to scuttle the family assistance plan.

But today Mills' "legitimate skepticism . . . was conduct in the highest tradition of legislative scrutiny," Fince said.

"In my estimation, Wilbur Mills is easily one of the 10 outstanding legislators in the history of the republic," the secretary proclaimed. "If that sounds like high praise, let me assure you that it's meant to be."

"My warm congratulations to you on this occasion, and best wishes to the students, faculty, friends and distinguished alumni of Hendrix College—particularly my friend, Congressman Wilbur Mills," President Nixon said in a letter to Shillings.

This outpouring of Republican praise may not be an unimixed blessing for an ambitious Democratic lawmaker.

Mills is reportedly wooing liberal support for a future bid to become speaker of the House.

tute aid, Fulbright said the question had been asked but that he "really couldn't remember" what Rogers answered. Neither could Aiken.

Fulbright said the administration apparently was not overly concerned about the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops roving Cambodia, but believed any substantial increase in their activity could threaten plans to continue winding down the Vietnam war.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., who left the session after about an hour, said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops have been using Cambodia as a sanctuary since 1965, and he couldn't see "why such a big thing is being made of Cambodia."

"I just hope that it does not mean that somewhere back of the administration policy there is a hedge against 'Vietnamization,'" he added in reference to the President's stated aim of turning over the fighting to South Vietnam troops.

Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., criticized his fellow committee members for wanting to separate Cambodia from the rest of Southeast Asia, cutting off all aid and burying the problem "as though in some valley on the moon."

McGee said he was the only one of the 11 members attending the meeting who believed the administration should be allowed to have options on Cambodia.

He also said Rogers was "genuinely soliciting the judgment of members of the committee. There is genuine solicitation . . . they are not seeking approval. They are seeking advice."

Fulbright quoted Rogers as saying the administration believed it could send some additional aid to Cambodia without seeking authorization from Congress, but it probably would have to get approval to meet the whole request.

The Arkansas senator said the committee suggested the administration take up the Cambodian situation in the United Nations and he said Rogers promised "serious consideration to that approach."

He also said Rogers was hopeful that a "very tentative move" among Asian nations, initiated by Indonesia, may provide a solution.

Blackmun's Records Are Requested

WASHINGTON (AP) — Detailed records of the financial interests of Supreme Court nominee Harry A. Blackmun have been requested by four Democratic senators.

Sens. Birch Bayh of Indiana, Philip A. Hart of Michigan, Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Joseph D. Tydings of Maryland made the request in a letter to Senate Judiciary Committee chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss.

The committee begins hearings on the nomination Wednesday, and sources said Blackmun was scheduled today to visit privately with members of the committee.

Group Forms in Favor of Constitution

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — About 25 prominent political and business figures banded together Monday in a bipartisan attempt to have the proposed new state constitution adopted in the November election.

The group met at the invitation of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller and named a seven-member steering committee to make recommendations on how the organization should help support and finance the effort to sell the proposed document to the voters.

Rockefeller recommended that the group coordinate citizen participation in behalf of the new document. He also said the group could provide speakers to appear before organizations throughout the state and raise money to conduct an advertising campaign in support of the proposed constitution.

Bob Fisher of the governor's public relations staff outlined an advertising campaign he said would cost about $100,000.

Rockefeller said he favored a campaign format that was "totally nonpolitical."

Several Rockefeller aides attended the meeting along with the state chairmen of the two major political parties, Republican Odell Pollard of Searcy and Charles D. Matthews of North Little Rock.

Others attending were W. R. "Witt" Stephens, president and board chairman of the Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co., and a financial backer of Democratic candidates; former Gov. Sid McMath; Raymond Rebsamen, a prominent Little Rock businessman and a former candidate for governor; Odell Smith of the Teamsters union; R. A. "Brick" Lile, a Little Rock insurance executive; Jack Pickens of Little Rock, a well-known businessman; John Harsh, a member of the state Highway Commission and Dr. Lawrence

New York statute's definition of obscenity to minors and the House bill follows it almost to the letter.

It describes in detail prohibited depiction of genitals, buttocks, breasts and sexual arousal and defines it as obscenity harmful to minors when it: "Predominantly appeals to the prurient, shameful or morbid interest of minors; and is offensive to prevailing standards in the adult community concerning what is suitable material for minors; and is substantially without redeeming social value for minors."

The one change, which the ACLU says make the bill more general, is that while the court-approved New York statute says "utterly without redeeming social value" the bill uses "substantially."

The bill is basically what President Nixon asked last year but he proposed fines up to $50,000 and prohibition of interstate shipment of obscene material as well as use of the mails.

A Justice Department lawyer testified two weeks ago the bill's definition is more explicit than necessary and the $5,000 fine may be too low to effectively curb smut mail.

"Pornographers," said Asst. Atty. Gen. William Rehnquist, "may consider this just another cost of doing business."

A. Davis, president of Arkansas AMEN College at Pine Bluff.

Davis said those in the group should be "strongly committed" to the new constitution because it probably would become a political issue in this year's election campaigns.

McMath said acceptance of the proposed document "is imperative if we are going to solve some of the state's problems."

"Personally, I feel stronger about this than anything that is coming up in this year," Pollard said.

Recognizing the possibility that the proposals may lead to a considerable number of credential challenges in 1972, the commission recommended that the credentials committee "be guided by the principal that state parties must assume the burden of ensuring opportunities for full, meaningful and timely participation in the delegate selecting process for party members."

Democrats Warned About Party Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A party reform commission warned today the alternative to orderly change within the Democratic party is a turn to third and fourth parties or "the anti-politics of the street."

"We believe that popular control of the Democratic party is necessary for its survival," the commission headed by Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., said in a final report on proposals for reform delegate selection procedures.

The commission, created by the 1968 Democratic National Convention, had previously called for future convention delegations to be more representative than those of the past.

Future delegations should contain women, young people and members of minority groups "in reasonable relationships" to their proportion in the state's population, the commission said. Practices such as proxy voting, lack of rules, slate-making by committees and delegate fees should be eliminated, it added.

The commission made clear in its report the guidelines are subject only to review by the next national convention—not by the Democratic National Committee—but concludes "we believe that our guidelines place no unreasonable demands on state parties."

Recognizing the possibility that the proposals may lead to a considerable number of credential challenges in 1972, the commission recommended that the credentials committee "be guided by the principal that state parties must assume the burden of ensuring opportunities for full, meaningful and timely participation in the delegate selecting process for party members."

New telephone directory coming your way!

One of the most popular books in town will soon be delivered—your new telephone directory.

The plot of the phone book is not new, but you'll find some new names and numbers have joined the usual terrific cast of characters.

So for fastest service, you'll want to discard your old directory and start using the new phone book as soon as you receive it.

As a tip for better service, you might want to circle or underline numbers in the new directory that you call frequently. This makes it faster and easier to look them up next time you call.

And here's another tip for better service—keep your directory near your phone for handy reference when making calls. Use your new telephone directory for all it's worth—there's a lot in it for you.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — There were lean pickings on the television networks Monday night—between the early and late news the only two new offerings were a short documentary about communal living on ABC and the final program of the season for "The Carol Burnett Show" on CBS. Alas, they conflicted.

Since the ABC hour was preceded by a 1952 Western that had not caused any excitement 16 years ago and since the wind-up of the Burnett show for the past two seasons has been an annual highlight of the series, it was an easy viewing decision. But it turned out a poor one.

Carol Burnett calls her final show a "Family Program" and skips guest stars in favor of letting the regulars do their stuff. This time unfortunately most of that pleasant warmth was lost in a welter of dismal maladroitness. Harvey Korman, normally a tower of strength even started chewing scenery, perhaps an attempt to help out a bad situation. Carol was notable more for her fright wigs than her comedy.

Earlier on Doris Day — In rerun — was in one of those familiar CBS, situation comedy messes, trying to persuade a susceptible bachelor that she was a talky bore. It was pretty silly stuff but Miss Day is a skillful performer who handles comedy very deftly.

Amid the stresses of winding up the season's rating race, the performance of "The Doris Day Show" has largely been overlooked. It finished its second season listed among the 10 most popular programs.

Last season, after a soggy start, it attracted such low ratings there was speculation about whether it would survive.

Miss Day brought in a new production crew and changed the locale from pastoral to urban. CBS changed the show's time period so that it fell into a block of popular comedy shows.

It may have responded to any or all of these emergency remedies, but it is now a bright, healthy series that will be around for a long time to come.

This is a week notable for the lack of special programs on the networks. This has to do with the fact that it is one of the year's two "Black Weeks" when Nielsen ratings are taken. Sponsors of specials like to have an idea of how many people saw their shows.

Fat Hotdogs Draw Fire of Consumer

By DON KENDALL

AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Nixon administration decision against disclosing the brand name of "fat" hotdogs has drawn the fire of a consumer spokesman who says processors are hiding behind bureaucratic skirts.

"Maybe I believe in the free enterprise system more than the administration," said Erma Angevine, executive director of the Consumer Federation of America.

"I say put 'em in line and let them compete in the open market and let the consumer decide," she said.

Mrs. Angevine's comments followed the refusal Monday of the Agriculture Department to list the names of meat packers charged under a new federal regulation to keep the fat content of hotdogs and other cooked sausages to a minimum of 30 per cent.

Until last October 23 when the 30 per cent limit went into effect, there was no federal maximum on the amount of fat in hotdogs. Experts said during hearings last June the fat proportion ranged as high as 50 per cent in some varieties of cooked sausages.

The Agriculture Department, which administers federal meat regulations, announced Monday after repeated requests by newsmen that the fat content of sausages during the first quarter of 1970 averaged 28.5 per cent.

But the department refused to identify the names of manufacturers. "There may be trade secret information available in some of these," one official said. "We determined that it would be unfair, really, since we obtained these by reason of our regulatory authority."

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

PEACE BEGINS AT HOME

Dear Helen: We all say we want peace, but if we can't make it work in a small community, a neighborhood block, or in our own homes, how do we expect to ever bring about world peace? How many people are there who really get along with their families? How many neighbors seem to enjoy fighting and feuding? Look at all the dissension about the way your city is run.

It seems that we're saying, "We want peace so bad we'll fight for it!" That's like the father saying to his kids, "Shut up and get along, or I'll brain you!"

We'll never have peace anywhere unless we learn to love our fellowman, and that doesn't mean only the ones who look and think like us. Why can't people really LIKE each other?—FOR TRUE PEACE

Dear FTP: Because people don't really try to understand each other. May that day come! —H.

Dear Helen: I'm dating a boy who has had trouble with the law. He's been busted twice for drugs. He wants me to go away with him, but I'd rather wait a year and get married. My folks are raising Cain about me going with him. How can I make them understand the problem is just insecurity?—KNOWS SHE CAN HELP

Dear KSCB: Your parents DO understand the problem is "just insecurity"—THEIR! It won't be solved until you break off with this two-time loser.

You're headed for a messed-up life of drugs and drifting unless you drop the "little mother" role and realize that a boy can only be helped when he's ready to help himself.—H.

Dear Helen: If my big brother and I could get along together, things would be a lot quieter around the house.

I can't help arguing with him when he acts so darn superior. He says I act bratty, but it's just because he riles me into it.

How can I make life easier for both of us, and especially my parents?—TROUBLED 12-YEAR-OLD-GIRL

Dear Girl: Try praise. Let your brother know you think he's great (even if you must act a bit), and pretty soon he may start living up to the role.—H.

Dear Helen: I was practically engaged to this fellow I never met. We started corresponding when he was in the Service (he's a friend of a friend), and he wrote for two years. He said we'd be married when he came home, and I believed him.

Now I hear from the friend who "introduced" us that he is engaged to another girl, and the wedding date has been set.

I've saved all his letters. Could I take him to court for breach of promise or something? —LEFT 3,000 MILES FROM THE ALTAR

Dear Left: A man can't be sued for changing his mind about marrying a girl he never met.

"Breach of promise?" Such suits went out of style with the flapper. How did a teen-ager ever hear the phrase?—H.

Hunger Hits Youngsters the Hardest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hunger and malnutrition in the United States strikes preschool children and adolescents from poverty-ridden families the hardest, resulting in reduced growth and possible mental retardation, a federal scientist reported today.

In a survey prepared for the Senate Committee on Hunger and Human Needs, Dr. Samuel E. Schaefer said "by far the most frequently malnourished age groups are preschool children and adolescents."

"The younger population is the key contributor to the finding of serious malnutrition in the sample population as a whole," said Schaefer, chief of the nutrition program of the U.S. Health Services and Mental Health Administration.

Schaefer also said "There is no longer any doubt that the incidence of malnutrition is related to poverty-level incomes. The poorer you are the more likely you are to suffer from serious malnutrition."

Schaefer's study, conducted under the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, surveyed 10 states—large and small, urban and rural, North and South.

As an example of the study's findings Schaefer said a survey of 13,373 persons in Louisiana and Texas—two of the 10 states included in the report—discovered malnutrition's 10ptoms in widespread growth retardation, anemia, and unacceptable levels of vitamins A and C and riboflavin.

He said the results of the survey have prompted state officials to act to improve welfare and food distribution programs.

"There are indications that the survey in the other eight states will stimulate similar action programs," he said.

But at the time of the survey, he said, less than 10 per cent of those surveyed in Texas participated in either the Food Stamp or Commodity Distribution programs, both federally financed. In Louisiana, he said, 29 per cent of those surveyed took part in the food stamp program and 12 per cent got surplus foods under the commodities programs.

"Lack of transportation to the source of the program, lack of understanding and eligibility regulations all exerted an influence on participation," he said. In preliminary findings last year, Schaefer said, most children between one and three years of age were below the average height recorded for well-nourished American children. In the final study most children between the ages of six months and six years were retarded in growth and some showed signs of retarded bone growth as well, he said.

"Growth retardation is one of the first indications of malnutrition and reduced physical growth can be indicative of mental and neurological retardation," he added.

"The incidence of serious malnutrition—multiple nutritional deficiencies—is five times as high in persons at the bottom of the income scale," Dr. Schaefer said, adding that the bottom was considered $1,800 a year and below and the top $7,400 annually and above.

the liberty of two gangsters who malnutrition among those persons in the middle of the poverty range—$1,800 to $3,600—was two times as high as those at the top," he said.

Fat Hotdogs Draw Fire of Consumer

By DON KENDALL

AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Nixon administration decision against disclosing the brand name of "fat" hotdogs has drawn the fire of a consumer spokesman who says processors are hiding behind bureaucratic skirts.

"Maybe I believe in the free enterprise system more than the administration," said Erma Angevine, executive director of the Consumer Federation of America.

"I say put 'em in line and let them compete in the open market and let the consumer decide," she said.

Mrs. Angevine's comments followed the refusal Monday of the Agriculture Department to list the names of meat packers charged under a new federal regulation to keep the fat content of hotdogs and other cooked sausages to a minimum of 30 per cent.

Until last October 23 when the 30 per cent limit went into effect, there was no federal maximum on the amount of fat in hotdogs. Experts said during hearings last June the fat proportion ranged as high as 50 per cent in some varieties of cooked sausages.

The Agriculture Department, which administers federal meat regulations, announced Monday after repeated requests by newsmen that the fat content of sausages during the first quarter of 1970 averaged 28.5 per cent.

But the department refused to identify the names of manufacturers. "There may be trade secret information available in some of these," one official said. "We determined that it would be unfair, really, since we obtained these by reason of our regulatory authority."

Haywood Is Most Valuable Pro Player

NEW YORK (AP)—Spencer Haywood, Denver's sensational rookie who led the American Basketball Association in scoring and rebounding this season, was named the league's most valuable player today.

The 20-year-old Haywood was the overwhelming choice, receiving 17 first place votes from the 20 sports writers voting. The ABA commissioned the U. S. Basketball Writers Association to make the selection.

Roger Brown of Indiana received two first place votes and Mel Daniels of Indiana, last year's MVP, received one.

However, Rick Barry of Washington was second in the overall voting.

Dave Overpeck of the Indianapolis Star, chairman of the panel of voters, announced the results.

Haywood received 97 points of a possible 100, and Barry had 48 points. Daniels, Brown and Bob Verza of Carolina were next in the voting.

Haywood averaged 29.9 points and 19.4 rebounds per game in leading the Rockets to first place in the Western Division this season. He set a league single-game scoring record with 59 points against Los Angeles in the final game of the regular season.

Haywood starred on the championship U. S. Olympic basketball team in 1968 before winning All-American honors at the University of Detroit, in his home town.

He then signed with Denver in a controversial move last summer. He had two years of college eligibility remaining. The 6-foot-9 Haywood started the season at center but was switched to forward after Joe Belmont replaced John McLeod as coach early in the season.

Haywood set ABA season records with his 2,519 points and 1,637 rebounds. In his sweep of honors, he also was named the most valuable player in the ABA All-Star game in January.

Kelly Hopes to Halt Blues in Hockey Play

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Pittsburgh Coach Red Kelly regained his voice, his disposition and his optimism in the West Division Stanley Cup National Hockey League semifinals over the weekend.

Now the question is whether hockey's Pied Piper can produce enough charisma to block the St. Louis Blues' advance into the final round of the playoffs against East Division champion Boston beginning Tuesday night at the Arena.

"I have an idea it's just about time," Kelly said following his team's 3-2 and 2-1 triumphs at home, squaring the best-of-7 Blues-Penguins set at two

Lakers Even Series in Pro Playoff

Associated Press Sports
NEW YORK (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain spent the day at the movies ... and the New York Knicks paid for it later.

Chamberlain studied films of last Friday night's loss to New York, then adjusted his style accordingly to lead Los Angeles over the Knicks 105-103 in the National Basketball Association playoffs Monday night.

The title-hungry Lakers thus tied at 1-1 the best-of-7 championship series which resumes in Los Angeles with games three and four Wednesday and Friday nights.

"I watched movies of the first game ... and I wasn't too proud of my performance," said the gimp-kneed Chamberlain, who let Reed slip by for 37 points as the Knicks grabbed the opener 124-112.

It was different Monday night as Chamberlain turned into an animated horror show for Reed. The king-size Los Angeles center, despite knees ravaged by surgery and chronic arthritis, took down a game-high 24 rebounds, scored 19 points and intimidated Reed.

The Play of the Game came in the closing seconds when Chamberlain practically jammed a Reed layup down his throat. The shot would have tied the score.

"I have to give Chamberlain credit," said Reed. "He did a heck of a job rehabilitating himself after that operation on his knees earlier this year."

"I play with bad knees and I know what he's going through to play. It's a double effort to do it on those knees."

Chamberlain missed 70 games of the regular season after knee surgery, and admits the operation and the years are beginning to take their toll.

"I'm sure not the Wilt of old," said the muscular, goateed giant. "But it doesn't matter if Atlanta the team plays as well together Houston as we did tonight. 'Some people expect the miracle job because my name is Chamberlain. But Reed has always been tough for me to handle.'"

Coach Joe Mullaney of Los Angeles admitted he needed a quick change of script after Friday night's loss.

What was the difference, coach?

"Well, first it helps not getting so far behind," said Mullaney, alluding to New York's 20-point first half advantage that had Los Angeles playing catch-up most of the night Friday. "Both Wilt and Jerry (West) said they were tired after running after the Knicks Friday night."

"Tonight, I told Wilt to go to the basket more. You can stop the Knicks' fast break by putting the ball in the hole. And we also played a little defense."

While Reed scored 29 points, he had a poor 12-for-29 shooting mark from the field. This was mostly attributed to Chamberlain's imposing figure, a windmill in purple and gold shorts.

So Chamberlain did his defensive thing against the Knicks, and Jerry West delivered the knockout punch with a 34-point performance.

West probably wants this championship as much as anybody. He, along with teammate Elgin Baylor, have been close to winning a title more times than he cares to remember.

"It's hard to describe in words what it means to me," said the NBA's scoring king. "Everybody talks about the money ... but peace of mind is very hard to get."

"There's no question about it—I want the title bad. Chamberlain: 'It must be frustrating to be as great as they are (Baylor and West) and never taste the fruits of victory.'" games each.

"We hadn't won at Oakland, either, until we got into the playoffs. We're due in St. Louis sooner or later, and it's got to come in the fifth or seventh game."

A revitalized offense featuring rookie Michel Briere offers Pittsburgh its best chance to break through in the series, which will continue through at least Thursday night in Pittsburgh.

Briere, a will o' the wisp, manufactured decisive goals in both Pittsburgh triumphs and assisted on two others, one each game.

While Pittsburgh cannoned 51 shots Sunday, the Blues' production was trimmed to 24 by fierce Penguin checking.

Still, said Blues' Coach Scotty Bowman, "I think we have too many scorers for them to keep us out of the net much longer. I think we can rebound on home ice."

Chicago Cubs in 11th Win Straight

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Joe Decker is a slow starter, but luckily for the Chicago Cubs Hank Aguirre and Phil Regan are fast finishers.

That triumvirate teamed up Monday night to pitch the Cubs to their 11th consecutive victory, a 1-0 squeaker over Pittsburgh. The last time the Cubs won 11 in a row was 1945, which just happens to be the last time they won the National League pennant.

Somehow (translation: New York Mets) the Cubs didn't win in 1969. And one of the reasons was their overworked pitching staff. But if Monday night's game is any indication, Manager Leo Durocher has finally found his long-sought fourth starter.

His name is Joe Decker. Well, actually, his name is George Henry Decker, but as far back as he can remember—he'll be 23 on June 16—everyone's called him Joe, or Joey, and he doesn't know why.

And the Cubs don't much care, by George. Not after the way the 6-foot, 175-pound right-hander throttled the Pirates on six hits for 8 1-3 innings.

Decker left after Roberto Clemente's one-out triple in the ninth. Aguirre walked Bob Robertson, but Clemente was nailed in a rundown when Al Oliver tapped back to the mound. Regan then came on and got Jerry May to bounce into a game-ending force play.

Philadelphia edged Los Angeles 4-3 in the only other NL action. Montreal's scheduled game at San Diego was rained out.

In the American League it was Cleveland 5, Minnesota 1; Boston 4, Oakland 3 and Washington 5, Milwaukee 5 in 10 innings.

Decker, who beat the Mets on the final day last season for his only other major league decision, is in his sixth year as a pro. But his development was slowed in 1966-67-68 when he attended Arizona State University and didn't play baseball until June.

"By the time I was ready to pitch," he recalled, "the season was half over. What complicated things even more was the fact that I'm a slow starter."

Decker got in shape for baseball this season by serving a five-month hitch with the Arizona National Guard. He didn't get to the Cubs' camp until mid-March.

The Cubs' run was unearned and came with two out in the third inning when Glenn Beckert tripled off Steve Blass and scored when catcher Manny Sanguillen let the relay get by him for an error.

In the fourth, after Larry Hsieh alertly scored from third on a pop foul to the third baseman, Wise singled across what proved to be the winning run.

Joe Hoerner came on in the seventh to nail down the victory after the Dodgers scored twice in the fourth on Willie Crawford's double and added an unearned run in the sixth.

Stars Coach to Be Married

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bill Sherman, 44-year-old coach of the Los Angeles Stars of the American Basketball Association, married schoolteacher Dorothy Green Monday. It was the second marriage for each.

Red Sox, hammered a single, triple and a tie-breaking homer in the eighth inning as Boston edged Oakland 4-3.

PITCHING—Joe Decker, Cubs, checked Pittsburgh on six hits for 8 1-3 innings as the Cubs nipped the Pirates 1-0 for their consecutive victory.

Seeks Goal That Eluded His Father

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Trainer John Jacobs is set to take a double-barreled shot at a goal that eluded his late, and famous, father, Hirsch—win a Kentucky Derby.

But John makes it clear that should either Personality or High Echelon win Saturday's 96th running of America's most famous horse race, the credit belongs to his father who bred both colts.

"It will be without question a win for him," said John Tuesday morning while observing his two charges, both owned by his mother, at Churchill Downs.

Should the victory come—Hirsch Jacobs missed in seven tries—it will be accomplished in the most wide-open Derby in many years.

Without a solid favorite coming out of the series of Derby prep races, a field of 18 to 20 3-year-olds is shaping up for the $125,000-added, 1 1/4-mile classic.

At least four starters were expected to come from today's one-mile Derby Trial in which 11 were entered including High Echelon; California Derby winner George Lewis, Gotham winner Native Royalty, Supreme Quality and Admiral's Shield.

High Echelon, considered the lesser half of the Jacobs threat, definitely will run in the Derby, barring injury, Jacobs said.

But if bloodlines were the sole basis for winning a Derby then it is easy to understand John Jacobs' enthusiasm over Personality's chances Saturday.

"To him (Hirsch Jacobs) this one is the epitome of breeding," John said. "He felt now he had reached the peak. He said he felt this would be a classic horse."

Personality is by Hail To Reason, a champion race horse and sire, out of the champion mare, Affectionately.

Affectionately, by Swaps, winner of the 1955 Derby and sire of 1963 winner Chateaugay, won numerous stakes during a lengthy racing career.

Two Derby hopefuls worked out Monday. Native Royalty went three-eighths of a mile in 34 seconds and out a half in 46. Mrs. J. Simpson Dean Jr.'s Holy Land moved a mile in 1:39 2-5 and galloped out another eighth in 1:53.

In other Derby developments, Silent Screen, My Dad George and Charles Windle's Cassie Red were walked, Her-Jac Stable's Naskra was shod and Kuhn's and Hickey's Robin's Bug, winner of the Survivor Stakes at Pimlico last Saturday, arrived at the Downs.

The last time Kentucky played at New York, the Colonels walloped the Nets 128-101, so they are hopeful of evening the series at 3-3.

Denver, led by Spencer Haywood, is favored to down the Caps, led by Rick Barry. If the Rockets win, their first game against Los Angeles will be in Denver Thursday night.

Should Kentucky beat the Nets, the seventh and deciding game of their best-of-7 set will be played in Louisville, Ky., Wednesday night. The Stars and Pacers earlier qualified for the division finals.

NCAA Will Discuss Sunday Games

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla.—College sports championships are headed for Sunday action in the future and the NCAA has cleared the path for Sunday bowl games and other post-season activity.

"Sundays are okay for district and national baseball championships," said Charles M. Neinas, director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

"Proposals for Sunday post-season events can now be entertained by our extra events committee. The baseball playoffs will be the first NCAA championship activity ever played on Sunday."

The decisions were handed down by the NCAA's policymaking council, which winds up a five-day meeting here today.

Neinas said Sunday games will not be allowed if one of the competing colleges decides against it. There has been little regular season action on Sundays in the past, mostly by Catholic schools.

There won't be any additional bowl games in 1970-71, on Sunday or otherwise. The NCAA Extra Events Committee said it had turned down bids from bowl groups in Phoenix (Cactus), San Diego (Carnation), Tampa (West Coast), Memphis (Blues), Tucson (Copper) and Lake Charles, La., (Charity).

The committee has not added a post-season football bowl since the Peach Bowl came into being for Atlanta in 1967. There are 11 slated to be approved again this year including the Rose, Orange, Cotton, Sugar, Gato, Astro-Bluebonnet, Liberty, Sun, Pasadena, Tangerine and Peach bowls.

An all-star game was added, the Pennsylvania Dutch All-Star game in Lancaster, Pa., on Nov. 28. It will feature top players from smaller colleges in that state.

All-star games approved for continued action include San Francisco's East-West game, Miami's North-South game, Montgomery's Blue-Gray game and the Alamo Bowl in San Antonio.

Volleyball Championship

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The national collegiate volleyball championships of the Division of Girls and Women's Sports will be held next year at University of Kansas in Lawrence, it was announced Monday.

Sul Ross of Alpine, Tex., won the 1970 event the past weekend at Long Beach State by turning back UCLA 15-4, 15-7.

Sounds Simple Being a Cage Coach

By FRED MORROW Pine Bluff Commercial HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — So you want to be a high school basketball coach? Just give five 17-year-old boys a leather ball and tell them to throw it through an iron ring more times than the other team. That sounds simple enough. And then along comes a guy like Jack Bridges and he says something like, "It's a heckuva lot easier raising alligators than coaching basketball." The 40-year-old Bridges, head basketball coach at Pine Bluff High School, does both. In the cool months, he spends his time with the mod generation and when summer comes, he gets involved with a bunch of mean-looking nasty-tempered gators. Bridges owns an alligator farm in Hot Springs. He possibly is joking when he says managing the farm is easier than managing high school athletes. "At least an alligator's parents don't take such a personal interest in him," Bridges laughs. The farm hasn't made Bridges a millionaire, yet, but he says the business at the farm, which stays open all year, is better than ever. Although the 190 alligators are the prime selling point at the farm, Bridges has other animals on display such as loggerhead turtles, deer, monkeys and an Iguana. As far as knowing how and when to handle alligators, Bridges has become adept at that. He knows how to stay away from the tail. "And the mouth is no problem at all until it gets open," Bridges said. After that, it's virtually impossible to shut the mouth until the gator is ready, Bridges says. The biggest gator Bridges has owned was caught out of Bayou Bartholomew near Pine Bluff, that one eventually reached a length of 17½ feet and weighed 930 pounds. According to Bridges, he was the second largest alligator in captivity in North America. Bridges' largest alligator now weighs 890 pounds and is 15½ feet long. All of the gators on the farm are Arkansas gators, Bridges says. He said most of them were caught in the Red River bottoms between Hope and Texarkana, although he has several that were taken from Bayou Bartholomew. Pneumonia and hepatitis are chief concerns for alligator owners. These two diseases take a heavy death toll among gators, he said.

Wake Forest After Title in Golf Meet

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP) — Wake Forest University golfers have won the last two North and South Amateur tournaments, and the Deacons are off to a flying start in their bid for No. 3. Four members of Coach Jess Haddock's current team were jammed into the upper bracket as second-round play began today. In addition, the defending champion, Je Inman of Greensboro, N. C., was one of four former Wake Forest players among the 32 men in top half of the draw. The first-round's 64 matches produced nine that went extra holes and 14 that went the 18-hole distance. Eight of these 23 were in the hotly competitive second quarter of the draw. After today's second round, two rounds will be played Wednesday with quarterfinals Thursday, semifinals Friday and the 36-hole final Saturday.

Knows Reason Why Baseball Is Livelier

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — If the baseball is going farther faster this season, as some pitchers claim, San Francisco Giants pitching coach Larry Jansen thinks he knows the reason. Jansen, who has been doing some carving with his pocket knife, claims the newest balls have a rubberized glue just under the leather cover and that balls manufactured earlier do not have the glue. Charles Feeney, in his first season as National League president, replacing Warren Giles, already has denied a dozen times that the ball is any different than it was 30 years ago. "Last year, we started to get balls with a rubberized glue between the leather cover and the inside wrapping," Jansen said Monday as the Giants were off, awaiting Tuesday night's game here against the New York Mets. "If anything is making the ball go farther faster this season, the glue must be it," Jansen says. The Giants were issued 750 dozen balls at the start of the season, all with Giles' signature stamped on them. Jansen inspected the balls with Feeney's signature when Giants visited Houston, Cincinnati and Atlanta. "I've torn open discarded balls and found some Giles balls with the glue and some without," Jansen said. "The Feeney balls I've opened all have it."

Gal Cyclist Takes Case to Court

By RANNY GREEN Tacoma News Tribune Written For The Associated Press ACOMA, Wash. (AP) — A 19-year-old parts manager in a motorcycle shop went to court to compete in American Motorcycle Association races and won. The AMA previously had barred persons such as the plaintiff from competition by refusing to grant the necessary license, but the Pierce County Superior Court ruled last week in favor of Debbi Selden, thus breaking down yet another barrier to women in sports. "I've wanted to race professionally since I was 14," said the 5-foot-4, 118-pound Miss Selden. "I've corresponded with the AMA since 1967, but I've received replies in the nature of 'Go away little girl.' I was refused a try for a professional license in April 1969 after I turned 18." If she does compete professionally this year, she'll probably be knitting before the start of the race, just like in her amateur days. "I do it because it helps me relax," she said, despite the "odd looks" she gets from male cyclists busy with last-minute tune-ups. Debbi said it wasn't the money so much as the kicks of pro racing that led her to take her case to court. "Racing gives me a feeling I can't describe," she said. "The tough thing for me is that I reached a stage in motorcycling where I felt I was qualified to be a professional, but that unfair regulation barred me, even though my qualifications and experience were greater than some men."

Arkansas in Double Win at Amarillo

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas, a team that had won only one game all year, swept a Texas League doubleheader from Amarillo 3-2 and 5-1 Monday night. Arkansas lefthander George Winslow and Ron Willis combined for a three-hitter in the first game. Then the Travelers jumped on Giant starter Gary Levelle for three first inning runs in the nightcap. Righthander Joe DiFabio got the victory. Jose Cruz' pop fly double sent home the decisive run in the fourth inning of the opener for the Travelers. It came after Amarillo had tied it at 2-2 with two runs in the fourth inning. Jim Mallon doubled in one run and Bob Holbert singled home the tying run for the Giants. Arkansas got three runs in the first inning of the nightcap on Bill Stein's two run single and Danny Napoleon's single. First baseman Gary Moore's two home runs gave the Albuquerque Dodgers a 4-3 Texas League victory over the Memphis Blues Monday night. In other league action, El Paso blasted Shreveport 8-4 and Dallas-Fort Worth edged San Antonio.

Plan to Guard Against Plant Radiation

By HOWARD BENEDICT Associated Press Writer PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A government radiation expert proposed today a national surveillance program to guard against nuclear power plants endangering health or spoiling the environment. He said the 16 plants now operating in the United States are safe, but noted that 90 new reactors are planned or are being built and that by the year 2000 nearly 70 per cent of America's electricity will be nuclear generated. Ernest D. Harward, chief of the Nuclear Facilities Branch of the U.S. Bureau of Radiological Health, said the bureau, the Atomic Energy Commission, individual plants and states now monitor the release of reactor radioactivity. "But a much larger effort is needed now," he said. "The bureau proposes the development of a coordinated nationwide radiation surveillance program with participation by industry, states and federal agencies to meet the objectives of public health protection and preservation of environmental qualities." Harward told a national conference on radiation control that experts have checked all present reactors and concluded "they discharge only small quantities of radioactive wastes in comparison to their licensed limits under normal operating conditions." Harward said a nationwide surveillance program will be important "when an expanding nuclear industry results in several nuclear reactors sharing the same local environment." He said several nuclear power plants discharging wastes into the same river could cause a dangerous accumulation downstream. Harward said another potential problem is the reprocessing of spent fuel from nuclear reactors "which may result in environmental radioactivity levels far greater than those associated with the reactors themselves."

School Ruling Will Not Be Pressed

By PEGGY SIMPSON Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has decided against pressing for a Supreme Court ruling on the legality of segregated schools resulting from housing patterns, the Justice Department's top civil rights lawyer says. The reason, Jerris Leonard said Monday, is the administration has no solutions to offer should the high court strike down unofficial—or de facto—segregation as unconstitutional. Leonard thus made clear what President Nixon had implied in his recent statement on school segregation in which he said the administration would avoid "provoking the courts into extreme decision." The Supreme Court has not ruled that "racial isolation by itself requires a constitutional remedy, even where that racial isolation may be brought about by official action or inaction," Leonard told a news briefing group. The high court has held unconstitutional the official—or de jure—type of segregation existing in the South but has not spoken on the question of whether the Constitution requires widespread busing to achieve racial balance in neighborhood schools. Leonard also said statewide desegregation suits once contemplated against Florida, North Carolina, Arkansas, Mississippi and South Carolina may not need to be filed since, he said, voluntary compliance is coming along. Three weeks ago, Leonard said the administration would "watch very closely" voluntary compliance efforts in the weeks ahead. "If nothing happens to end the dual school systems we are kind of bound to proceed with the state suits," he said at the time. But Leonard said Monday he saw progress in ending the dual school system. Leonard disclosed the administration's position on de facto segregation in response to the question, "We would best have a solution" if such a request to the Supreme Court were made, he said, adding that neither he nor his colleagues do. "If the law were to require an elimination of de facto segregation in schools, then we would be busing children from, say, Harlem, to who knows where," he said. Leonard contended the federal government has no law on which to justify pursuing alternative paths to desegregation created by housing patterns. He said the administration will pursue the neighborhood school concept in the South, patrolling it after neighborhood schools in the North. But he said it is true the trend in the North is toward increasing segregation as whites desert the inner cities for the suburbs, Leonard stoutly defended the

Bomb Threat Ends School at Rogers

ROGERS, Ark. (AP) — Students at Rogers High School were dismissed Monday morning after an anonymous telephone warning that two time bombs had been placed in the building during the weekend. School officials said the caller told them the bombs had been set to go off at noon. administration's school desegregation efforts, saying he saw no difference between the civil rights policies of the administrations of former President Lyndon B. Johnson and Nixon's. Asked why he thought Nixon has been criticized for slowing down the pace of desegregation, Leonard said "because for a certain amount of money you can buy a newspaper and say what you want."

New Chemicals Useful in Many Areas

By FRANK CAREY AP Science Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists of four nations are rushing to complete powerful new atom smashers that may prove useful in treating cancer and desalting and purifying water. The devices, nuclear accelerators, are designed to create new superheavy chemical elements that scientists hope will have many practical uses. But how these elements are to be produced may give science bonus benefits in medicine and in making salt water drinkable, reports at the annual meeting of the American Physical Society revealed. The machines sport powerful beams of subnuclear "bullets" of a chemical element to bombard another element in an effort to produce new superheavy material. But Dr. H. Marshall Blann of the University of Rochester told in his report how the subnuclear beams hold promise in other fields. "Outside of nuclear physics there is great interest in the beams for possible applications ranging from radiotherapy (against cancer and other diseases) to water desalination and purification," he said. The nations involved in the race to complete the machines are the United States, the Soviet Union, France and Germany. Blann said it appeared France's device, called Alice, will probably go into operation first, possibly sometime this year. The U.S. and the Soviet Union are running neck and neck, with prospects of having their machines operational by 1972, he said. But another American scientist, Dr. Albert Ghiorso of the University of California at Berkeley, where the United States' device is being built, said it may be ready as early as mid-1971. The most sophisticated machine will be the German device, called Unilac. It's not expected to be ready until 1974 or 1975. Details of the effort to build the smashers came out after Ghiorso reported discovery of a new heavy radioactive chemical element, created by an existing accelerator. The new-found substance, called Hahnium, is light when compared with the new elements being sought. It was created by bombarding a rather heavy element, Californium 249, with nitrogen. Ghiorso said the discovery might help toward artificially creating.

We used to know a gambler who believed firmly that you should gamble every day of your life. Otherwise you might be in a lucky streak and never know it.

With 17 high-card points opposite 12 South is in a nice, conservative no-trump game. If South is in a lucky finessing streak he can make all the tricks by finessing successfully for both minor suit kings and guessing which way to go after the queen of spades later on.

A pessimistic South will look over dummy with an eye to being sure of his game. He will decide that the queen of hearts lead is almost surely from a suit of at least four cards. He will then say to himself "What can I do if my evil genius has placed both those minor suit kings where I don't want them to be?"

The answer to his problem is that if he finessees for those kings in the right order everything will work out happily for him. He wins the first heart so as to give his lucky streak a chance if he is in one.

Then he leads a spade to dummy's ace and plays dummy's queen of clubs for a finesse. West plucks the trick with his king and continues hearts. South ducks that second heart but wins the third one and tries the diamond finesse. Bingo! Another queen has bit the dust.

East is on lead and plays a spade. South could finesse for that queen but he doesn't because he can now take the rest of the tricks without that finesse. He isn't going to risk that extra finesse just to test his luck when he doesn't need to.

Chickenpox Virus Is Cause of Shingles

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—What causes shingles? What are the usual symptoms? Will they leave scars? What treatment is best?

A—Shingles, or herpes zoster, is caused by the chickenpox virus. According to the prevailing belief, it occurs most often in persons over 40 who had chickenpox earlier in life and in whom the virus has lain dormant for years. What triggers the attack is not known.

The victim may have pain over the course of a nerve, usually on only one side of the body and most commonly a nerve running between two ribs. From two to four days later, small, painful, red papules and blisters occur in groups along the skin over the involved nerve. They dry up in about 10 days but new outcroppings may appear for four or five weeks. When the lesions have healed, they may leave areas of pigmentation or scarring. There is no second attack but a common and very disturbing complication is a persistent neuralgia in the involved area. This occurs most often in persons with hardening of the arteries.

In the acute stage, spraying the area with a freezing solution such as ethyl chloride relieves the pain and promotes healing. Covering the lesions with zinc oxide ointment is also helpful. Aspirin may be taken if the pain is severe but narcotics should be avoided because of the danger of dependence with prolonged use. In severe cases, spinal puncture and injection of ice cold normal saline solution into the spinal canal has given relief.

Voting Stand by President Is Criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's plea to lower the voting age to 18 by constitutional amendment has been criticized by a leading congressional Democrat as a means of defeating the Southern-opposed Voting Rights Act.

Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, termed the President's unexpected legislative maneuver "part of the Southern strategy to kill the voting rights bill."

Nixon touched off the row in Congress by telling congressional leaders in a letter Monday that while he supports lowering the voting age he believes it is unconstitutional to do so by statute. He asked the 18-year-old vote provision be separated from the voting rights bill and passed as a constitutional amendment.

The President's position runs counter to plans of House Democratic handlers of the bill who want to accept the Senate-passed version that would lower the voting age by simple statute.

Sending the measure to a House-Senate conference committee for reworking could defeat or weaken the voting rights statute, said Celler.

"Why did he wait so long?" asked Celler. If the bill fails to pass, he added, "the responsibility is on the President."

The bill containing the provision to lower the voting age would extend for five years the 1965 Voting Rights Act, which has been called one of the most effective civil rights laws of modern times. Supporters say it enabled more than a million Negroes in the South to register to vote.

House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich., said he "violently disagreed with Celler's interpretation of the President's motives. He said he would try and send the bill to conference to delete the 18-year-old vote provision."

The President asked for quick passage of a constitutional amendment because the Senate bill "represents an unconstitutional assertion of congressional authority in an area specifically reserved for the states, and that it would therefore not stand the test of challenges in courts."

If the Senate bill is enacted, Nixon said, "there looms the very real possibility that the outcome of thousands of state and local elections and possibly even the next national election," will be jeopardized.

"I strongly favor the 18-year-old vote," he added.

Drops Charge Against FBI Agent

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — A charge of disturbing the peace against FBI agent Floyd Thomas of El Dorado was dropped in U.S. District Court here Monday at the request of Dwight Farish, also of El Dorado.

Farish filed the charge in connection with an incident April 2 at Farish's home.

Thomas was allegedly investigating a meeting of the Ku Klux Klan at Farish's home. Farish filed the charge against Thomas after authorities charged Allen Smith, 20, of El Dorado with carrying a concealed weapon.

Smith was later found guilty and fined $100.

Robert Shelton, the imperial wizard of the United Klans of America, sat in on Monday's proceedings in federal court.

Shelton later told newsmen that the federal government had violated the privacy of those attending the meeting. He said the case was harassment and intimidation against an organization which is trying to preserve America from being taken over by the Communists.

U.S. Atty. Bethel Larey called Shelton's statement "absolutely ridiculous," noting that the charge had been filed by the Klan. He also said he was "amazed" that Shelton showed up for the hearing and added, "All he is trying to do is use this as a forum to create a sideshow for his organization."

Larey said he had subpoenaed the records of Farish and Nolan McDowell for Monday's hearing and had been prepared to place on the witness stand the men who attended the meeting at Farish's home.

Shelton told newsmen he had "confiscated" the records referred to by Larey and that he would not have permitted them to be brought to court if the matter had not been dropped.

Miss Marylyn Farley of Little Rock spoke to the Lions Club Monday at the regular noon luncheon at Town & Country. The program was arranged by Cecil O'Steen.

Miss Farley, a Californian, attended the University of Oregon two years and graduated from the University of Califor-

Miserly Aged Woman Leaves $250,000

DETROIT (AP) — An 84-year-old white woman—described by a former roommate as too miserly to pay $125 for needed glasses—has left almost $250,000 to the United Negro College Fund.

The donor, Mrs. Regina M. Peffy, died Jan. 4 in her small rented flat. Her will was admitted to probate Monday.

Mrs. Cressey Wilson, 60, who used to live with her, said Mrs. Peffy had planned to give her money to the fund because "she said the Negroes had always been mistreated."

Acquaintances were amazed to learn of her wealth. UNCF officials said they didn't know of the woman's existence until after her death.

Her stockbroker, Richard Cleary, said she made the money by playing "with those little, cheap speculative stocks and she frequently bought and sold."

UNCF uses its funds to help students at 36 predominantly Negro colleges in the South.

Among papers in Mrs. Peffy's two-room apartment was a 15-year-old newspaper clipping mentioning the fund and the fact that Wade McCree, who since has become a federal judge, was UNCF cochairman in Michigan.

In her will, Mrs. Peffy directed that Judge McCree become the fiscal agent for the estate.

Mrs. Peffy was once married and divorced. There were no known living relatives. No one showed up at the probate hearing to contest the will.

Mrs. Wilson said that despite being half blind from cataracts, Mrs. Peffy "threw a fit" when told she would have to pay $125 for new glasses. Mrs. Wilson said the old woman never bought them.

Little Rock

Miss Farley said that Peace Corps members were given an intensive three months training course on how to live in their assigned locations but that they were allowed to choose projects according to the greatest need in different locations.

Projects she mentioned were agriculture demonstrations, information on nutrition, birth control, hygiene and allied things.

She told about a 40 mile telephone line being constructed where none had been and declared school projects are the most needed.

She told about the people, the climate, and living conditions and showed native costumes. Her cousin, Arthur Wimmell, McCaskill, modeled a man's costume and Mrs. Wimmell assisted in displaying the native crafts.

Lions Wayne Pruitt, Raymond Walls, and I.M. Twyford of Murfreesboro made an official interclub visit.

Statement by Johnson Is Deleted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Columbia Broadcasting System interview with former President Lyndon B. Johnson deletes, at Johnson's request, a comment questioning the Warren Commission's theory that a single assassin killed President John F. Kennedy, the Washington Post reported today.

The Post said the deletion, made in the final scheduled installment of an interview with the former president, was requested by Johnson on grounds of national security. The telecast is to be aired Saturday night.

In New York, CBS declined comment on the Post report.

The newspaper quoted a CBS source who, it said, confirmed the former president expressed reservations about the commission's finding. The Post said the source refused to disclose the wording of the question put to Johnson and his answer.

The Post quoted Richard S. Salant, president of CBS news, as saying the deletions had been made.

But, the newspaper said, Salant and CBS executives declined to confirm or deny the deletions were comments concerning the assassination.

The Post quoted sources close to CBS as saying that Johnson, when asked by interviewer Walter Cronkite for his opinion of the commission's findings, replied that he has never been "absolutely" satisfied with the report.

$25 Billion for Treatment of Pollution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mayor Carl Stokes of Cleveland, speaking for the nation's mayors, told a Senate water pollution panel today no less than $25 billion must be spent on treatment facilities needed to clean the nation's dirty waters.

Stokes endorsed the money goal proposed by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, who called the Nixon administration's $10 billion proposal insufficient to do the job. Only $4 billion under the administration's plan would come from federal funds.

Another witness in the continuing hearings before Muskie's air and water pollution subcommittee said Congress must first assure states that have already spent $322 million for water treatment plants that they will be reimbursed by the federal government.

The witness, Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., said the money has been spent by 18

Obscene Mail Bill to Sail Through

By JIM ADAMS

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A landmark bill cracking down on obscene mail sent to youngsters and to adults who don't want it should sail through Congress "like motherhood and the flag," says a chief sponsor.

The bill, up for House approval today, defines in explicit terms nudity, sexual conduct, sexual excitement and sadomasochistic abuse considered obscene to minors.

The American Civil Liberties Union opposed it as an unconstitutional restriction of free speech and said Congress should have waited for a report from the President's Commission on Pornography and Obscenity before acting.

But Rep. Robert N. C. Nix, D-Pa., a principal sponsor, said he had heard of no opposition among his colleagues.

"It's just like motherhood and the flag," he said Monday.

Mailing material or advertisements defined as obscene for minors under 17 could draw a maximum five years in jail and $5,000 fine for the first offense unless it is specifically addressed to what the mailer believed to be an adult.

Succeeding offenses could draw a maximum 10 years in jail and $10,000 fine.

The same penalties could be imposed for mailing such material to adults who put their names on a Post Office Department register of people who don't want it.

The Supreme Court has made no hard and fast definition of obscenity but it has upheld a

Economic Indicators Point to Sharp Fall Inflation Slowdown

By BILL NEIKIRK

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Economic indicators point to a sharp slowdown in inflation this fall, two top economists predict.

They made their statements on a day the stock market suffered its worst slump in six years and other signs revealed a troubled economy.

In making this assessment in speeches to the United States C E R OF Commerce Monday, Walter W. Heller, former chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers under former President Johnson, and Beryle W. Sprinkel of Chicago supported Nixon administration contentions that the over-all price rise will slow sharply in the autumn.

But, as they spoke, other indications of a sagging economy caused concern in the business community.

In New York, the stock market's Dow Jones Industrial average fell 12.14 points to 735.15, the worst drop since Nov. 22, 1963, the day President John F. Kennedy was assassinated.

And, in Detroit, General Motors and Ford, the nation's largest automobile manufacturers, said that auto sales and profits were down in the opening quarter this year, although both still finished in the black.

Ford reported its consolidated sales in the opening three months down by 5 per cent, while GM's sales fell by 14 per cent during the same period.

At the White House, President Nixon conferred with his Council of Economic Advisers and five other economists called in for a special discussion of the nation's economic outlook.

Administration officials denied the talks were directly connected to the stock market slump. One informant said the discussion was scheduled some time ago and was "a general bull session—a kind of educational process for the President, to let him hear what others in the economic field are thinking."

Meantime a large bank in California announced it was reducing its rate to 8 per cent to boost the nation's economy.

Robert F. Parker, whose Community National Bank at Bakersfield, Calif., operates 17 branches in that state, said he hoped its action will trigger another round of nationwide prime interest rate reductions.

Six weeks ago the bank was the nation's second to drop its rate from 8 1/2 per cent to 8 per cent.

"New car sales are off more than 20 per cent in the first quarter and so it goes in all the industry by which the strength of our economy is measured," Parker told a news conference.

At the Chamber of Commerce meeting in Washington, Heller, now a University of Minnesota professor, told the businessmen "enough slack has developed in the economy" to assure the over-all price rise will slow to about a 4 per cent rate at the end of the year.

Sprinkel, senior vice president and economic director of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank, forecast a 3 per cent rate of increase by year-end. The current rate is 5 per cent.

"I am not afflicted with the doom and gloom that seems to pervade Wall Street and the business community," Heller said.

He said the situation is ripe for Nixon to call publicly for restraint on prices and wages by industry and labor.

BERLIN (AP) — Ambassadors of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union met today for a second round of secret talks on reducing tensions over divided Berlin.

There was no expectation an agreement might be reached any time soon.

Meeting in the old Allied Control Council building the ambassadors for the World War II victors were expected to expand on the basic positions they outlined at their first meeting March 26.

Francois Seydoux de Clausonne, French Ambassador to West Germany, was chairman of the second meeting. The others were Kenneth Rush of the United States, Sir Roger Jackson of Great Britain, and Pyotr Abrassimov, the Soviet ambassador to East Germany.

Sources said the three Western allies might attempt to get the meetings scheduled every two weeks and to arrange for four-power staff consultations between the ambassadorial talks.

There was also a possibility there would be discussion of bringing East Germany and West Germany into the talks at a later date.

But sources foresaw no breakthrough on the knotty problems concerning divided Berlin.

At issue first is a Soviet and East German contention that the talks should deal only with West Berlin. The Communists contend this is the only part of the city still under four-power occupation.

The allies want to discuss all of Berlin and not limit the talks to consideration of the western half of the city.

The talks are an adjunct to Chancellor Willy Brandt's drive to establish contacts with the East.

Committee Clear About Any U.S. Arms Aid to Cambodia Despite Plea

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has made clear to the administration it opposes any U.S. arms aid to Cambodia despite that embattled nation's plea for enough military hardware to outfit a large army.

"The committee was virtually in agreement and very firmly against sending assistance," said Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., after Secretary of State William P. Rogers briefed the panel behind closed doors Monday.

Agreeing with Fulbright, senior Republican committee member Sen. George Aiken of Vermont said he is sure "the President will take into consideration how this committee feels."

Fulbright and Aiken met with newsmen following the 2 1/2-hour session with Rogers. The secretary left hurriedly saying he didn't have time to comment.

Fulbright quoted Rogers as saying the Cambodians had made a "very large request for equipping a very large army," including rifles, trucks, half-tracks and airplanes—but not military personnel.

Fulbright said the administration apparently has made no decision on going beyond what it already has done.

Publicly, at least, this has been confined to approving South Vietnamese shipment of captured Soviet AK47 rifles and allowing armed forays into Cambodian territory by South Vietnamese soldiers.

When asked whether the administration had considered air support for Cambodian troops and whether this would constitute

AP&L Ruling by Court to Be Appealed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Kenneth C. Coffelt, a Jacksonville attorney, gave notice Monday that he intended to appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court a recent state Supreme Court ruling upholding the legality of a late payment penalty charged by Arkansas Power & Light Co.

Coffelt also asked the state Supreme Court for a stay of its mandate that upheld the legality of the late fee.

The state Public Service Commission last May permitted AP&L to impose a late charge. Coffelt challenged the charge with a lawsuit in the Pulaski Chancery Court, but the suit was dismissed. Coffelt appealed to the Arkansas Supreme Court, which upheld the Chancery Court ruling last month.

Cambodia Drives Off Enemy Band

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia

(AP) — The Cambodian government said today that its troops had driven the Viet Cong from the Buddhist pagoda in Angkor and that cleanup operations were under way in the town. It said small groups of Viet Cong were continuing to fight.

The battle at Angkor, 36 miles south of Phnom Penh, has been going on for six days. The army had said Monday that a Viet Cong unit was holed up in the Buddhist pagoda and that the Cambodians would not attack it because it was a sacred place. The army spokesman did not explain today how the Cambodians got the enemy soldiers out.

The spokesman said that during the night, the Viet Cong blew up another bridge—the second in the two days—on the road from Phnom Penh to Angkor.

The army said it is expecting an attack on Highway 4, the last road open all the way from Phnom Penh to the Gulf of Siam ports through which the capital gets its petroleum supplies. An army spokesman said reinforcements had been deployed along the highway down to Kompong Som, the country's chief port, which was named Shanoukville until Prince Norodom Sihanouk was deposed.

The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese have cut five of the seven major highways radiating out from Phnom Penh at various points 30 to 60 miles from the city. Only Highway 4 and Highway 5, which runs northwest to Thailand, are still open for their entire length.

The army said the Viet Cong had seized an administrative post at Sre Cheng, west of Angkor, and there was speculation that these enemy troops might head west for Highway 4.

The army spokesman said fighting was continuing in Chhlong, on the Mekong River 120 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, and that the Viet Cong had burned a police station there. He also reported heavy fighting on a French rubber plantation at Mimot, near the South Vietnamese border 35 miles southeast of Chhlong.

Sources in Phnom Penh said the Australian and Soviet embassies are evacuating more dependents because they fear an attack on the capital. The informants said some Yugoslavs were also being sent home and that most other embassies were considering moving the women and children out.

Showers Are Threat to Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers and thundershowers remain in the forecast for Arkansas.

The state's weather was being dominated by a high pressure ridge in the Gulf of Mexico which was sending warm, moist, unstable air into the area, the Weather Bureau said.

Showers had developed in the northeast portion of the state this morning and the shower and thundershower activity should increase during the next day or two, the bureau said.

Temperatures were expected to remain warm in the state the rest of the week, the bureau said.

Highs Monday ranged from 78 at Harrison and El Dorado to 84 at Fort Smith.

Overnight lows included 71 at Fayetteville, 68 at Harrison, 73 at Jonesboro, 74 at Pine Bluff, 73 at El Dorado, 74 at Texarkana, 74 at Memphis, 73 at Little Rock and 68 at Fort Smith.

Precipitation for the 24-hour period which ended at 7 a.m. today included a trace at Little Rock and Jonesboro.

Arkansans Killed in Vietnam

IRS Does It Again

Stung by noisy complaints from folks who can't make head or tails out of the supposedly "simplified" 1970 tax forms, the always-efficient IRS is springing into action again. "Maximum effort" will be exerted, we're advised, to assure simpler returns in the future.

Judging from the way these well-meaning efforts have always gone before, we can't help but worry that the redesigned forms will be even worse. Maybe IRS should try some bold new approach—say, for example, a deliberate effort to concoct a "complex" return. Then, we suspect, the average Joe could figure it out.—Roanoke (Va.) Times

Contention by Rap Brown Is Rejected

BALTIMORE (AP) — The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has rejected the contention that H. Rap Brown's trial on arson and riot charges should be held in federal court.

The three-judge panel ruled Monday there was no evidence that the black militant's civil rights would be jeopardized by his scheduled trial in the Howard County state court.

William M. Kunstler, chief defense counsel, said he would appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary. A previous appeal for a change of venue was denied by the high court on Jan. 12.

Howard County Judge James Macgill may announce today when the trial will be resumed. Brown has been missing from all the state court sessions so far and Kunstler has said that he does not know where his client is. The defendant is free on $10,000 bail.

This Chaotic Age Will Not Be Remembered for Great Letter Writing

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments by a pavement Plato:

However this chaotic age is remembered in the future, it won't be recalled as a period of great letter writing.

It has neither the leisureed grace nor mellow philosophy—or even the passionate desire to communicate one's thoughts—that stimulates the creation of great letters.

Folks today aren't so much interested in telling each other what they think as they are what they heard on a television talk show the night before.

Ah, for the shades of the great letter writers of yesterday—Lady Mary Wortley Montagu, Dean Swift, Lord Chesterfield, John Keats, Lord Byron, Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson, to name but a few.

Unable to pick up a telephone and exchange their opinions and ideas oftand, they sat down, took a sharpened goose quill in hand, dipped it in an inkwell and by labor of mind and gift of wit turned out long letters that are part of the endless glory of the English tongue.

Their letters took time to write and a much longer time to reach their recipient—days, weeks, even months—but they said something not only to him but to all mankind.

It is getting harder every year for anyone to achieve lasting fame as a letter writer even though he sets out deliberately to do so. There are other factors to blame besides the more practical efficiency of the telephone, the telegraph and the office dictating machines—plus the time-wasting allure of television.

Who will take the trouble to write a clever letter to a giant corporation when he knows it will be read only by a tired white collar office underling and answered by a bored computer?

Even George Bernard Shaw couldn't win a literary duel with a pompous computer.

Here's another problem: Suppose poet John Doakes, disturbed by the predicaments and paroxysms of civilization, indites a masterful letter to his friend, poet James Doe.

"Rosebud," says Doe, turning to his wife. "This letter from Doakes is too good to be lost. It is our duty to save it for posterity."

"Oh, no, we don't," replies Rosebud. "There isn't room in this apartment for anymore junk. We don't even have space to save our income tax returns."

And into the wastebasket goes Doakes' masterpiece.

Yes, the tradition of great letter writing appears headed for the same oblivion of the goose quill and lamp that spanned it.
